Oral Drops Herbal Blends: Echinacea

Echinacea is one of the most popular herbs in America today. It is a group of flowering plants that is native to the east of the Rocky Mountains and was used in traditional herbal remedies by Native American tribes. Today, people use it to shorten the duration of the common cold and flu, and reduce symptoms, such as sore throat, cough, and fever. Many herbalists also recommend echinacea to help boost the immune system and help the body fight infections.

Oral Drops Herbal Blends: Elderberry

Elderberry is one of the most commonly used medicinal plants in the world. Traditionally, Native Americans used it to treat infections, while the ancient Egyptians used it to improve their complexions and heal burns. It is still gathered and used in folk medicine across many parts of Europe. Today, elderberry is most often taken as a supplement to treat cold and flu symptoms.

Co-packing & Drop-shipping

Co-Packing

Some of our customers have bulk products that have been custom formulated or sourced through a supplier or extractor. However, they still require specialized equipment for packaging services from a cGMP-compliant facility to meet quality standards. We offer packaging, labeling, shipping and high volume capacity. We work with businesses small and large to package and ship production runs from small/limited quantities to large scale packaging orders of 20,000 units or more. Our flexible solutions allow you to integrate our service at any point in the production process. We specialize in packaging liquids, topical lotions/balms, tinctures, capsules, powders, gummies, dog treats and more, in a variety of container options.

Drop-Shipping

Drop-shipping is one of the most popular ways to build an eCommerce store. With no need to stock inventory (in-house) or manage product shipments, you can focus on marketing and building up an audience for your store. This is the most affordable way to launch a new eCommerce website. You make the sale, we receive the order, and then our fulfillment team ships directly from our warehouse to your customer. With no inventory on-site or warehouse team to manage, the opportunity to grow your eCommerce store has never been greater. Our expert warehouse team will scale with your business and support your operational needs.
